Storyboard - Jonas Kovacs

Oliver understands the need for going to the doctor, afterall, doctors help people. But he would rather not go to the doctor for minor everyday health problems that he encounters. Still though, He would like to find natural remedies for his minor ailments.

Oliver tells his friend Julie about his thoughts on this. She shows him the Herbal Remedies app. He download it, creates an account, and learns that Ginkgo Biloba can help cure his inflammation.

Oliver uses the app to find local small businesses that sell Ginkgo Biloba based ointment, he looks at prices and decides which store to go to, and heads there in his new-to-him Volkswagen bus.

Oliver happily makes the short drive, despite the impact of his diesel van on the environment. This is because The Herbal Remedies app directed him to a store that was nearby.

Oliver arrives at the store and finds what he's looking for Oliver's inflammation gets better and he's in a much better mood. He's now able to focus on his anti-war activist group more and enjoy his time with others. All without getting an expensive and potentially harmful prescription.

Karen has just received the news that she is pregnant with twins and now must think about what kind of lifestyle she will follow in order to have her children in the best health possible

1

Karen and her husband are discussing on the best way to approach their pregnancy. They both agree that natural oils are the best way to approach this situation.

2

Karen goes to her laptop and finds our website where she enters her situation, and we provide her with recommendations of what she should buy.

3

Karen waits patiently for 2-3 weeks as her products arrives to her house

4

The products Karen ordered arrived and she starts to take them as recommended

5

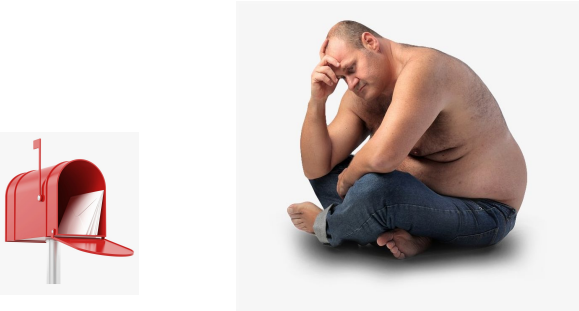
After a few weeks of taking our products Karen and her husband couldn't be happier with how they approached their situation

6

Tony is lethargic after his long shift as a garbage man. He wants an all natural way to boost his energy because anything over the counter could interfere with his cholesterol medication.

While at work, Tony's friend Joseph tells him about the Herbal Remedies app and how all of the remedies offered are all natural.

Tony downloads the app and inputs how he is feeling and what his diet looks like. The app offers a variety of all natural remedies and vitamins for tony to get more energy.



As Tony crawls to the mailbox, his anticipation builds as he knows his order has arrived and all natural energy is coming his way.

Tony devours the herbal remedies.

After taking the natural remedies provided to him and not being deficient in essential vitamins, Tony feels like a brand new man.

Storyboard: Walker Bowen

Meredith has just returned from the doctor where her doctor told her that she has a severe foot infection, and if they don't operate quickly, she could lose her leg.

Meredith broke the news to her husband Gregory, who replied saying he's heard of a new app that can cure her infection through the use of herbal remedies instead of having to pay a pesky hospital bill.

Meredith got out her trusty laptop, and found the app, made an account, and instantly had access to thousands of herbal remedies, including where to find them, and purchase options!

Meredith patiently waited for 2-3 business days, until her package finally arrived! Such great service!

Meredith then logged back onto the website, and immediately found the recipe she needed and got to work.

Meredith's foot slowly began to look better and better everyday. She still had to go to the hospital and actually fix her foot, but for a while she was happy with her results. If a doctor tells you to go to emergency surgery, please go.